

IMPROVEMENTS SHOULD BE MADE FIRST ON THE OHIO

So Says Congressman Tener on His Return From Mississippi Valley.

NECESSITY FAR GREATER

Large Amount of Trade Makes it Imperative that Congress Act at Once.

"Of all the proposed inland improvements by the Government, I regard the Ohio river policy as the greatest of them all," said Congressman J. K. Tener, who returned yesterday from New Orleans where he had accompanied the Presidential party down the Mississippi river in the interests of the Mississippi Improvement Association. "The Ohio policy has the sanction and approval of nearly every member on the Rivers and Harbors committee, besides a large number of other members, and best of all, of the President himself."

"I consider the improvement of the Ohio river of first and greatest National importance in the canalization of any inland waterway. While other sections may advance good and sufficient reasons why their particular stream or streams should be improved, the fact remains that, by reason of the enormous tonnage of diversified freight, which is now being carried on the Ohio, this would be doubled and tripled should navigation be possible all the year around. And, further, the fact that all surveys and estimates of cost have been provided for and completed, this particular project should have first consideration in the coming session of Congress. Moreover, the Ohio river from its source to its mouth has a fixed channel, and the formation of its banks are of such a character that neither revetment nor riprap work is necessary."

"While those who advocate the improvement of the Mississippi from the lakes to the gulf claim the feasibility and practicability of their scheme, they have yet to convince the President and Congress that their plans will work out, and then even though feasible, whether or not the improvement as contemplated justifies the expenditure of the enormous sum required to complete the undertaking. Some idea of this improvement on the Mississippi and its enormous cost to the Nation may be gained by the fact that the revetment work alone will cost from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000." Mr. Tener is enthusiastic over the prospects of the Ohio river policy, and can be depended upon to advocate and strongly urge in and out of committee the immediate improvement of the waterway that means so much to the Nation and to the development of this section.

Democrats Win in Fayette.

Judge R. E. Umble was re-elected judge of Fayette county on the Democratic ticket by a majority of 3,500 votes, defeating the Republican candidate, Alfred E. Jones. The entire Democratic ticket, both county and State, also carried in Fayette.

Regular Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Charleroi Merchants Association will be held in the Association rooms on Thursday evening of this week at 8:30 o'clock. The regular monthly business will be taken up.

West Brownsville in Need of Money

Project to Issue Bonds to Get Funds for School Improvements.

The West Brownsville school district will issue bonds to the amount of $17,000 for altering the present building and building an addition. The district has no indebtedness. The bonds will be in the denomination of $1,000, bearing 5 1/2 per cent interest, a bond is to be retired each year, the last to mature July, 1929.

REPUBLICANS WIN IN COUNTY

Voting Light Throughout and Returns are Slow in Coming In.

With estimated pluralities ranging from 2,000 to 3,000 the Republican county candidates have carried Washington county. The new officials are: Controller—John H. Moffitt. Recorder—J. C. Sutherland. Poor Director—R. C. Buchanan. Jury Commissioner—John W. Dague.

Returns thus far received at the county seat indicate that Sutherland leads the ticket with Moffitt a close second. There was much cutting on the State ticket, particularly Supreme Judge. At 2 o'clock this morning the Washington Observer claims that Munson, the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge, will carry the county over von Moschizker, his Republican opponent, by 500 plurality. This, however, is not conceded, as but 48 of the 132 precincts had been heard from. These included the large towns, where efforts were made to cut the ticket. Munson got his big lead in Washington where it is said all the attorneys there worked for the Democratic candidate, who received a total vote of 710 to 432 for Moschizker. When the Observer's claim was made Munson was leading by only 100, and it is more than probable that the returns from the remaining precincts will not only wipe out this lead but give von Moschizker a substantial majority. All the other candidates on the State Republican ticket are elected by estimated pluralities ranging from 1,500 upward. Less than a third of the vote was polled throughout the county. While Rev. Frank Fish of Clayville, the Prohibition candidate for State Treasurer, ran ahead of his ticket, he did not make much of a showing in the county.

Bad Fire at Bentleyville.

In a fire of unknown origin yesterday morning the store and stock of the Nixon Furniture company was destroyed. W. R. Cartwell, who slept in the second story of the building saved his life by jumping from a window. The Bentleyville aerie of Eagles, which had quarters in the building, lost all its paraphernalia. The total loss is estimated at $8,000.

Mrs. Leroy Price is spending several days with relatives in Uniontown.

CHARLEROI VOTERS NOBLY SUPPORT HOME MAN IN THE CONTEST FOR CONTROLLER

The Republicans Carry Everything in this Place With Moffitt Leading the Ticket.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION FAVORED

In the absence of any organized attempt to get the vote out less than 50 per cent of the largest vote ever polled in the borough was cast at the election yesterday, and only one-third of the registration. Some work was done individually, and in that manner many voters were induced to cast their ballots who otherwise would not have gone to the polls. There were no workers at the polls, and the election was devoid of stir or excitement at any time during the day. John H. Moffitt, Charleroi's Republican candidate for county controller, got a handsome vote, polling 417 out of the total of 533 votes cast, and leading the head of the State Republican ticket by 56 votes. Munson, the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge, on whom a special fight was made in the county, led the Democratic ticket, but did not fare very well, polling but 111 in the borough. Following is the vote by precincts:

Twilight Woman Brings Suit Against Man of That Place for Assault.

Because Frank Kyle chased Malvina, the daughter of Mrs. Matilda Walker, with a club, and picked up a stone to throw at Mrs. Walker herself on Sunday at Twilight, according to the statement of Mrs. Walker, he is being held under bail of $300 for court. What led up to the fuss is partly a mystery. It appears, however, from what Mrs. Walker says, that there has been sort of a feud, and when Kyle got mad at her daughter and started after her with a big stick, she remonstrated but Kyle, who was feeling cross fired up and wanted to reason with a stone. She brought suit before Justice of the Peace Wilson here, and the case was heard last night.

MUNSON WINS IN COUNTY

As the Mail goes to press County Chairman R. G. Miller telephones the news that all precincts have been heard from with the following results: State Treasurer—Stober, R., 3,936; Kipp, D., 2,913. Supreme Judge—Munson, D., 3,807; Moschizker, 3,636. Recorder—Sutherland, R., 4,812; Knox, D., 2,740. Controller—Moffitt, R., 4,284; Reed, D., 3,396.

CHARLEROI CLERKS FORM PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

No Quorum; Council Will Meet Tonight

Only Two Members Show up on Date of the Regular Meeting.

There was no meeting of the Charleroi council last night, owing to the fact that there were not enough members present for a quorum. Piersol and Frew were the only members who appeared. An effort will be made to have a meeting tonight.

CHICKENS POISONED

Rat Poison Gets in Yard and Fowls are Sufferers—Woman is Fined.

Anna Kucera was fined $10 and costs last evening by Justice of the Peace Wilson, on a charge of poisoning five chickens belonging to Kata Parala. Both people live in the vicinity of Tenth street. The suit was brought partly through the instrumentality of Humane Agent Gelder, who now is having the stomachs of the chickens examined.

Mrs. Kucera in her defense said that she had used rat poison in her cellar and it had carelessly been swept out into the yard, where the chickens ate it. The affair happened on October 30. Mrs. Parala stated that she had been losing several chickens and thought that they had been poisoned on purpose. Mr. Gelder has instituted suit against Mrs. Kucera on charges of cruelty and a hearing will be given when the results of the analysis is learned.

PROGRAM COMPLETE FOR FIRST CONCERT

The complete program for the first annual concert to be given at the Charleroi School hall on Friday and Saturday nights, has been arranged, and folder programs are now being printed. The program consists of two parts. The first part consisting of three numbers by the orchestra, two by the Charleroi Choral society, a reading, and vocal and instrumental solos and duets. The second part, being the conclusion, is probably the best, consisting of two numbers by the orchestra, vocal solos, reading, and chorus numbers. The concluding number will be "Splinters," a grand musical "smashup."

Seats may be reserved at Piper's Pharmacy Thursday and Friday for the concert.

Judge Doty Wins.

Over in Westmoreland county, where a hot fight was waged on the judgeship, indications point to the re-election of Judge Lucian Doty, Democrat, over Chas. C. Crowell, Republican, by a majority of 1,500 or more. The rest of the Democratic county ticket is also elected.

Affiliated with National Organization Which Furnishes Charter.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Will Make Effort to Secure Earlier Closing Hours for Stores.

At a meeting of clerks in the Co-operative hall last night, a Charleroi branch of the Retail Clerks International Protective Association was formed, with a charter membership of 75 persons. The various officers were elected, and the constitution adopted. The Charleroi Branch will be number 507, it being affiliated with the National organization. T. H. Flinn, of Pittsburg, an organizer of the American Federation of Labor, was present and did the organization work and there were re other union labor workers here.

Officers elected were: President, B. Frank Taylor; first vice president, Miss Carrie Youngman; second vice president, Miss Kate Murphy; financial secretary, Miss Kate Mangat; recording secretary, Miss Rose Lundy; treasurer, Miss Ella Phalan; representatives to Trades Council, T. J. Shores, Miss Grace O'Donnell, Miss Victorine Hantisse, Miss Marie Veltetay, Walter Jack.

The organization will be beneficial principal objects in the forming of the association was to secure earlier closing of stores, something in which the majority of merchants of Charleroi will co-operate. Another matter that will be taken up will be that of seats behind counters for lady clerks.

Arrangements were made for an open meeting to be held some time in the near future by the clerks, at which time all the citizens of Charleroi will be welcomed. The purpose of the organization will be explained and the benefits accruing from it. Meetings will be held every second and fourth Tuesday in the Merchants' Association rooms.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN EXPRESS OFFICE

Speers Business Will be Handled Through the Charleroi Agency.

An important change has been made by the Adams Express company for the Charleroi district in the placing of the Speers business in the hands of the Charleroi office. This means that all the express for Speers and Belle Vernon will be handled through the Charleroi office. W. H. Reese, the Charleroi agent will be in charge of the one office, but another driver will be put on. It is possible that a sub-office will be conducted at Speers. The change was made this week.

Voted 'Em Straight.

At the election in the first precinct yesterday 146 straight Republican votes were cast out of the total of 246 polled. As there were 47 Democratic, 25 Prohibition and 6 Socialist votes polled in the precinct, but 22 Republicans cut their ticket.

A Republican Year.

ing: A Republican Year.
The triumphant election of the State take a publican ticket yesterday snows part conclusively that the principle of self-protection and the action of Pennsylvania to support its representatives in both House and Senate are heartily endorsed by the people of this Commonwealth. While no National issues were directly involved in the election of any of the candidates, their defeat would have been construed to have meant the disapproval of the National policy by the people of Pennsylvania, and would have renewed the tariff agitation which is now happily for all business interests settled for a long time to come.

Not only is the election an endorsement of the National policy, but it is also an express approval of the most excellent administration of State affairs by Governor Stuart. While a desperate attempt was made in some quarters of the State to stir up party discord, the signal failure shows that the people have nothing to redress, and that they feel the administration is in safe and good hands. There is no occasion for Republican factional discord now in Pennsylvania, with the nomination of all officials directly in the hands of the people, and all attempts to stir up trouble is doomed to meet with failure.

In By a Neck.

If E. F. Acheson voted for the candidates supported by his papers, the Observer and Reporter, and presumably he did, he can barely qualify as a Republican at the next primary election. The law provides that to be entitled to vote a party ticket at the uniform primary election, the voter must be able to qualify that he supported a majority of the candidates on the party ticket he calls for at the last general election. There were seven candidates on the ticket this fall—three State and four county. Mr. Acheson's papers urged voters to support the Democratic or Prohibition State candidates and the Republican county candidates. If he voted this way he can technically call himself a Republican by a majority of one.

While Mr. Acheson has a right to vote for whom he pleases, and to split his ticket if he sees fit, in view of his past record his conduct is extraordinary, to say the least. Whatever honor, prestige or standing he may have attained he owes to the Republican party. More than that he supported the party without question through all of its worst features of bossism and corruption—including the capitol graft scandal—and bitterly arraigned those who revolted in the interests of decency and good government. Now that these elements have been eliminated and the people are once more in control, Mr. Acheson professes to be much alarmed over the party loyalty. His actions deceive no one and his efforts to wreck the Republican party in the county are doomed to ignominious failure.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

With Hallowe'en and Election Day both over, the county will have time to collect its thoughts, and incidentally its gates.

A newspaper in a head said that a man died almost, then below added the word instantly. Sort of a queer way, though.

About the only excitement Greene county gets during the year is the Carmichaels fair and the Waynesburg-W. and J. game.

When a fellow misses an afternoon in the office, when he should be busy, he has no business complaining because he has more work the next morning than he is able to do.

Many people have a prejudice against being on a lunacy commission. And that prejudice is considerably strengthened by the danger of the job. The other day a woman who by all rights should have been crazy, yet who was discharged from Dixmont, brought suit against the persons who said she wasn't fit to live in respectable society.

If the people who are continually complaining about the conditions would start a movement to better affairs, it would be more agreeable for all.

Ohio isn't in the same class as New York. In Ohio all their laws are written, but in New York—remember the Thaw case.

Friends of Prof. Jeffries should get behind a telephone pole, then advise him not to knock that colored man's block off, until he gets in the ring with him.

There is something in that Prof. Carver, who wants to alter the ten commandments. It at least shows that he has read them and that is more than many people can boast of doing.

The Perfect Man.

There is a man who never drinks Nor smokes, nor chews, nor swears; Who never gambles, never flirts. And shuns all sinful snares— He's paralyzed.

There is a man who never does A thing that is not right; His wife can tell just where he is At morning, noon, and night— He's dead. —Exchange.

COUNTY PHYSICIANS TO HOLD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Washington County Medical Society will be held in the county court house next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The report of the committee authorized to meet with the county commissioners on the matter of the society's room, of which J. F. Donohoo is chairman, report of the auditing committee, Dr. John C. Kello of Canonsburg, chairman, and the report of the nomination committee, Dr. Charles L. Harsha, of Canonsburg, chairman, will be heard. The election of officers for the ensuing year will be a feature of the meeting and will likely draw the largest attendance for months.

The scientific program will be one of the best of the year. Dr. J. M. Timmons, of West Alexander will talk on the topic, "Diagnosis of Lesions of the Cord." Dr. C. M. Linley on "Early Diagnosis of Locomotor Ataxia," and Dr. C. L. Dodd on "Etiology and Symptomatology of Acute Poliomyelitis."

WHAT A LAWSUIT BROUGHT ABOUT.

By M. QUAD.
(Copyright, 1909, by T. C. McClure.)
Farmer Jepson, widower, lived four miles from Akron on the country road, and Jane Schofield, widow and farmer, lived three miles west of him on the Red Bridge road. They had lived thus for five years and only knew each other by name. The five years might have become twenty had not an old lop horned cow stepped in to give the parties an introduction.

The cow was owned by the widow. Besides being lop horned she was bolt tailed, wild eyed and had various bad habits, one of which was jumping six rail fences and wandering about at night. These promenades sometimes led her miles away and into strange pastures. The first time Farmer Jepson saw her she was in the midst of his cornfield and had cleared about half an acre of the juicy stalks. He was a good man, but he swore at her and called her names. He also tried his best to kill her on the spot. A week later the cow called again to see how the corn was coming on, and after half killing her the farmer sent word that if she was not kept at home he would sue her owner for damages.

"And who is Farmer Jepson that talks so big, I'd like to know!" exclaimed the widow as she got the message by a hired man. "If he thinks he's the biggest toad in the puddle let him go right ahead and sue. Two can play at that game. I'm not allowing my live stock to bother my neighbors, but I'm not going to sit up every night in the week to see that that old cow don't get out. You go back and tell him that I'm not afraid of any ten men like him."

"Oh, she ain't, hey?" exclaimed the farmer when the hired man had returned with the word. "Waal, we'll see about that. I'm no hand to complain of my neighbors, but I'm not going to have their cows in my corn and then take sass to boot. If that old critter of a cow steps hoof on my land again there'll be a lawsuit to make things rumble."

The cow didn't hurry matters any. She waited until Mr. Jepson had transplanted his cabbage plants and they had got fairly growing, and then she called one night and helped herself to 250 of them, and two days later the widow learned that suit had been commenced by Farmer Jepson to recover $250 damages.

"So he's sued me, has he?" observed the widow, as she doubled up her fists and fire came to her eyes. "Well, well, see who comes out ahead."

Plaintiff and defendant each secured a lawyer, and of course each attorney assured his client that he had the best kind of a case and was sure to win. After two or three adjournments the case came to trial, and it was in the courtroom that plaintiff and defendant first saw each other. Both were surprised, and both said something to themselves. What the farmer said was:

"Waal, by thunder! I expected to see a fat and homely old two fisted widder, and I find her a good looking little bit of a female who ought to be sitting on a husband's knee. Wish I'd seen her before I began this suit." "Lands o' massy, but he ain't no mean looking man!" exclaimed the widow after a look at the farmer. "Why, they said he was a big boss and bluffer and wanted to bulldoze me 'cause I'm all alone in the world. Say, now, but they are all wrong. He ain't the kind to bluff and pitch in. Wish he'd have come to see me about the old cow. If he had I'd have chained her up. Wonder how 'ard he'll swear agin me!"

She was soon to know. The plaintiff's lawyer in opening the case said it was an aggravated case of trespass and damage and that the sum mentioned wasn't really half what they should have sued for. Then he went on to tell of what a defiant woman the defendant was and wound up by stating his hopes that the jury would render a verdict without leaving the box. Then the plaintiff was called to the witness chair, and, to the surprise of the widow and the disgust of his lawyer, he said he had forgotten the message the woman returned to him. He followed that up by declaring that his feelings had simply been shocked and that he had fully recovered from the shock in a minute and a half. As to the corn and cabbage, perhaps $10 would pay the bill.

"You jackass, but you have lost your case!" hissed his lawyer as the witness stepped down with a smile in the direction of the widow, whose lawyer was whispering to her:

"Now, you get up there and give us some hot talk and your case is won." There was no hot talk from the widow. On the contrary, she cooed like a dove. She admitted to the ownership of the jumping, predatory cow, but was quite willing to pay reasonable damages. She didn't doubt the plaintiff's shocked feelings and was sorry for them and wished he had hit the old cow with the ax. One of the results of the suit was a verdict for 6 cents damages, and another was that Farmer Jepson said he would call at her home for the money. He kept his word. A week later he drove up to the door and after an hour's interview was asked to call again. Three months later his disgusted lawyer was heard to exclaim:

"Prettiest case I ever had and dead sure of a verdict, and Jepson knocks it all in the head by falling in love with the defendant. Yes, they were married yesterday."

LESSONS FROM THE LATE FIGHT

Voters to Study and
Ponder Over

LACK OF DEMOCRATIC POLICY

No Good Reasons Advanced For
Democracy's Further Existence.
Republican Party, Built on Ever
Enduring Rocks, Openly Invites
Scrutiny and Confidence.

While the dust of the recent political contest in Pennsylvania has not entirely settled it has been demonstrated that the campaign taught a variety of useful lessons to the voters of this Commonwealth. These lessons are certain to be of immense value to the young voters who have not yet become enamored of either party beyond the stage of careless admiration.

In the very nature of things the young voter without hide-bound political affiliations must stop, look and listen after he recalls and reviews the conduct of the two great parties in the recent conflict. He must inquire seriously of himself just what the two great parties stood for in his county, his State and the Nation. His answer, which is certain to be emphatic and conclusive, will be supplied by just what he saw and heard.

The Democrats, playing hide-and-seek with the political discontents of the State, proclaimed a fixed policy or positive principle. They simply resorted to the dark-lantern methods of the pirate and quarreled with every condition as a criminal quarrels with the law. They demonstrated that they only wanted the offices for the good the offices would do them, without giving a single serious thought to the good they might accomplish for the people by controlling the offices. Victories secured under such conditions are indeed rare and even when secured are not in any way substantial. They bring no security to the party as an organization, and they give absolutely no promise of permanency. At their very best they are mere incidents and under no form of reasoning are they lasting. They possibly appeal to the people as a sensation for an hour. Then, unless they take on the form of national calamities, they fade and are forgotten. Therefore, why?

Why should the young voters of Pennsylvania attach themselves to the Democratic party? Who, all along the line from Bryan to the borough constable, is able and willing to give an affirmative and at the same time a sensible answer? Why should the young man, enjoying the richest and rarest privilege given to any people—that of saying by his vote who shall govern him and administer the affairs of his county, State and Nation—follow the Democratic will-o-the-wisp through the meshes and swamps, knowing that the guiding light, flickering in its uncertainty, is fearful of solid footing and ashamed to be caught without cover? Therefore, why?

Why should any young voter in Pennsylvania attach himself to a party which never attached itself permanently to anything higher than an office occasionally? What issue that was worth while developed from the Democratic side in the recent contest? What feature of the Democratic-Discontent campaign just ended was admirable or attractive? What reason was given in that campaign, or is likely to be given, for the existence of the Democratic party now or hereafter? Think it over, young voters! Think it over seriously! And while thinking it over, just as sincerely and seriously as is possible, recall and review the methods employed by the Republican party in the fight just ended. Study the policies and principles of the Republican party just as they were advocated and advanced during the campaign.

"I'm here, because I'm here" was the sum total of the Democratic policy, offered in the form of an excuse.

Protection, prosperity, integrity and fidelity to the best interests of all the people formed the rock upon which the Republican party stood during the contest under discussion, just as it has stood in all former contests and just as it is certain to stand in the fights of the future. Upon this policy and upon these principles, all big with interest to every loyal citizen of this State, the Republicans went direct to the people. They went even into the remote corners and told and retold their purposes and plans. They left all masquerading to be done by the Democrats and the Discontents. The Republicans appealed to the highest senses of the voters. Their campaign was managed in the open and it seems but little less than distressful that all the voters were not able to feel the effects of the magnificent campaign so skillfully managed from the headquarters of the regular Republican organization of the State, or to hear more of the policies and principles of the Republican party as preached from platforms in every county of the State.

Probably the most attractive and instructive political meeting held during the entire campaign was that held in Carnegie Hall, North Side, Pittsburgh, October 23. Such meetings are rarely held except during presidential contests. Among the speakers were United States Senators Boies Penrose and George T. Oliver, both of whom are now figures of national prominence. Both figured conspicuously in framing the new tariff legislation which has been pronounced by President Taft as the best tariff bill ever enjoyed by this Nation. Each is capable and deservedly popular. With them at the Carnegie Hall meeting was that brilliant young congressman, Joseph Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia. It is really too bad that the speeches of these distinguished Republicans cannot be given in full. They proclaimed the protection faith which is in them and their speeches will form a part of the political history of the future in this State.

There was one portion of Congressman Moore's tariff talk which appeals to old soldiers after the election just as earnestly as it did before the battle of the ballots. Making reference to the fact that last year Congress appropriated more than $160,000,000 for the maintenance of the old soldiers and their widows, an amount fully one-half the entire revenue derived from the tariff, and the amount paid out through the pension agency at Topeka, Kan., the largest of the 15 pension agencies, is paid to more pensioners than are found in the two agencies of Pennsylvania combined, or the two in New York State combined, or the three in the New England States combined, Mr. Moore said: "If the tariff is not a local issue in this campaign, or in any other campaign, I would like to know what would happen to the old soldiers in the Middle West, and throughout the country as well, who require the equivalent of half of all the tariff revenues that come through the custom houses. If we eliminate the tariff from local or State campaigns and the Republican party is defeated in the stronghold of its national organization, I wonder if the property-owning business man and the home-owning citizen will not have to face the problem of direct taxation to maintain the revenues of the government? How else can the money be raised?"

Senator Penrose demonstrated his rare versatility and the wonderful expanse of his familiarity with the industrial conditions of Pennsylvania, in an intensely interesting review of tariff legislation, favorable and unfavorable, and his speech throughout was one well worth a reading, after as well as before the election. At one point he said: "After a long, hard and often doubtful struggle, revised rates were secured in the Payne law under which the iron and steel industries of Pennsylvania will enjoy adequate protection and which will prevent foreign competition that would either close the mills or compel the wage earners to accept employment at the low wage scale in effect in the iron and steel industry abroad. The revision of the rates of the metal schedule will operate to the advantage of the iron and steel plants, large and small alike."

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Molden, 2115 Second St. North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

BENTLEYVILLE TO HAVE WATER SERVICE

The hustling little village of Bentleyville of a few years ago, which has now grown to be a good sized borough with paved streets, is now arranging to have a water supply and electric lights.

A deal was put through last week for ground along North Pigeon creek by the Bentleyville Water company, which purchased the plot from H. L. Frye. It is the intention of the company at once to begin the erection of the reservoir and have the water piped to the borough. Pigeon creek will furnish an abundance of pure water.

It is understood that the same company is arranging to have an electric plant established there and soon the streets and the houses will be lighted with electricity.

PRESENTIMENTS.

Incidents in Which Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before.

Coming events cast their shadows before them. The writer is led to believe this because several incidents in the lives of his parents corroborate the theory that presentiments of good and evil do come to persons unawares. I will mention two of them.

In the summer of 187— my father late at night was returning to his farm from the little town of Malton. He had stayed unusually late. When he reached the farm all was quiet. Removing the harness from his horse, he proceeded to the carriage house and hung it in its place.

He came out and closed the door. As he did so he heard the harness fall. It was very dark. He went back into the house and found the harness still hanging in its place. The same occurrence took place again. He went back again and found it in its place.

When the third time he heard the sound of falling harness he did not go back. Several weeks later his barn burned, and the harness that he saw hanging ness was in the barn loft, a valuable set. He attempted to save it. The staircase burned behind him, and he was compelled to jump for his life from a window. His previous experience came to him vividly. He saved the harness, but at the risk of his life.

Another vivid incident I recall was my mother sitting by the fire with a sick baby. The nurse was present, too, and both were wide awake. Her father appeared to her and advised her as to the baby's treatment and other family matters. He vanished as quickly as he had come. The next day, she heard of his death.—London Tit-Bits.

Apfelsine.

Messina furnished early in the nineteenth century a new word for the German language. It was from there that oranges were first shipped to Germany, and the fruit was known for a long time after its advent as "apfel aus Messina"—apple from Messina. After many years, "apfel aus Messina" degenerated into "apfel Messina," and finally it became "apfelsine," the name by which oranges are still known among German speaking people.

IMPROVEMENTS SHOULD BE MADE FIRST ON THE OHIO

So Says Congressman Tener on His Return From Mississippi Valley.

NECESSITY HAD CREATED

Large Amount of Trade Makes it Imperative that Congress Act at Once.

"Of all the proposed inland improvements by the Government, I regard the Ohio river policy as the greatest of them all," said Congressman J. E. Tener, who returned yesterday from New Orleans where he had accompanied the Presidential party down the Mississippi river in the interests of the Mississippi Improvement Association. "The Ohio policy has the sanction and approval of nearly every member on the Rivers and Harbors committee, besides a large number of other members, and best of all, of the President himself."

"I consider the improvement the Ohio river of first and greatest national importance in the canalization of any inland waterway. While other sections may advance good and sufficient reasons why their particular stream or streams should be improved, the fact remains that, by reason of the enormous tonnage of diversified freight, which is now being carried on the Ohio, this would be doubled and tripled should navigation be possible all the year around. And further, the fact that all surveys and estimates of cost have been provided for and completed, this particular project should have first consideration in the coming session of Congress. Moreover, the Ohio river from its source to its mouth has a fixed channel, and the formation of its banks are of such a character that neither revetment nor riprap work is necessary."

"While those who advocate the improvement of the Mississippi from the lakes to the gulf claim the feasibility and practicability of their scheme, they have yet to convince the President and Congress that their plans will work out, and then even though feasible, whether or not the improvement as contemplated justifies the expenditure of the enormous sum required to complete the undertaking. Some idea of this improvement on the Mississippi and its enormous cost to the Nation may be gained by the fact that the revetment work alone will cost from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000."

Mr. Tener is enthusiastic over the prospects of the Ohio river policy, and can be depended upon to advocate and strongly urge in and out of committee the immediate improvement of the waterway that means so much to the Nation and to the development of this section.

Democrats Win in Fayette.

Judge R. E. Umble was re-elected judge of Fayette county on the Democratic ticket by a majority of 3,500 votes, defeating the Republican candidate, Alfred E. Jones. The entire Democratic ticket, both county and State, also carried in Fayette.

Regular Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Charleroi Merchants Association will be held in the Association rooms on Thursday evening of this week at 8:30 o'clock. The regular monthly business will be taken up.

REPUBLICANS WIN IN COUNTY

Voting Light Throughout and Returns are Slow in Coming In.

With estimated pluralities ranging from 2,000 to 3,000 the Republican county candidates have carried Washington county. The new officials are: Controller—John H. Moffitt. Recorder—J. C. Sutherland. Poor Director—R. C. Buchanan. Jury Commissioner—John W. Dague.

Returns thus far received at the county seat indicate that Sutherland leads the ticket with Moffitt a close second. There was much cutting on the State ticket, particularly Supreme Judge. At 2 o'clock this morning the Washington Observer claims that Munson, the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge, will carry the county over von Moschizker, his Republican opponent, by 500 plurality. This, however, is not conceded, as but 48 of the 132 precincts had been heard from. These included the large towns, where efforts were made to cut the ticket. Munson got his big lead in Washington where it is said all the attorneys there worked for the Democratic candidate, who received a total vote of 710 to 432 for Moschizker. When the Observer's claim was made Munson was leading by only 100, and it is more than probable that the returns from the remaining precincts will not only wipe out this lead but give von Moschizker a substantial majority. All the other candidates on the State Republican ticket are elected by estimated pluralities ranging from 1,500 upward. Less than a third of the vote was polled throughout the county. While Rev. Frank Fish of Clayville, the Prohibition candidate for State Treasurer, ran ahead of his ticket, he did not make much of a showing in the county.

Bad Fire at Bentleyville.

In a fire of unknown origin yesterday morning the store and stock of the Nixon Furniture company was destroyed. W. R. Cartwell, who slept in the second story of the building saved his life by jumping from a window. The Bentleyville aerie of Eagles, which had quarters in the building, lost all its paraphernalia. The total loss is estimated at $5,000.

Mrs. Leroy Price is spending several days with relatives in Uniontown.

CHARLEROI VOTERS NOBLY SUPPORT HOME MAN IN THE CONTEST FOR CONTROLLER

The Republicans Carry Everything in this Place With Moffitt Leading the Ticket.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION FAVORED

In the absence of any organized attempt to get the vote out less than 50 per cent. of the largest vote ever polled in the borough was cast at the election yesterday, and only one-third of the registration. Some work was done individually, and in that manner many voters were induced to cast their ballots who otherwise would not have gone to the polls. There were no workers at the polls, and the election was devoid of stir or excitement at any time during the day. John H. Moffitt, Charleroi's Republican candidate for county controller, got a handsome vote, polling 417 out of the total of 533 votes cast, and leading the head of the State Republican ticket by 56 votes. Munson, the Democratic candidate for Supreme Judge, on whom a special fight was made in the county, led the Democratic ticket, but did not fare very well, polling but 111 in the borough. Following is the vote by precincts:

Twilight Woman Brings Suit Against Man of That Place for Assault.

Because Frank Kyle chased Matilda, the daughter of Mrs. Matilda Walker, with a club, and picked up a stone to throw at Mrs. Walker herself on Sunday at Twilight, according to the statement of Mrs. Walker, he is being held under bail of $300 for court. What led up to the fuss is partly a mystery. It appears, however, from what Mrs. Walker says, that there has been sort of a feud, and when Kyle got mad at her daughter and started after her with a big stick, she remonstrated but Kyle, who was feeling cross fired up and wanted to reason with a stone. She brought suit before Justice of the Peace Wilton here, and the case was heard last night.

REPUBLICANS WIN IN STATE

Stober Thought to Have Led Ticket for State Treasurer.

The entire Republican State ticket was elected yesterday by an estimated majority of 150,000, although Judge von Moschizker, the Republican candidate for Supreme Judge, was cut considerably throughout the State. The defeat of Giboney for district attorney on the fusion ticket in Philadelphia by Rutan, the Republican candidate, destroys all hope of an organized factional fight against the Republican organization next year.

Another fight that attracted wide attention was the municipal contest in New York City. While Gaynor, the Tammany candidate, has been elected mayor, the Democrats have lost control of the board of estimate and apportionment. The Republicans also elect the district attorney.

In Allegheny county the entire Republican ticket is elected and the bond issue for $7,000,000 for public improvements carried in Pittsburgh by a large majority.

50 PERSONS IN ONE SMALL HOUSE

Sort of Sub Postoffice Run at Foreign Establishment in Monessen.

The census man is not on the job in Monessen yet, but a union worker is to assist in the placing of mail in the right persons' hands, and in taking a special census of mill workers in that place. To say that he finds the job an easy one would be to tell an untruth, but he does strike some queer things. Near 330 Schoonmaker avenue at one house he had found 250 persons supposed to reside. This place is a small house, and it would make it stretch to get 250 people in it, all standing. The reason is easily explained, however, by the fact that it is merely a clubbing together of foreigners as a sub-postoffice. It is stated that this is often done by the foreigners.

H. E. Dawson of Beallville was a caller Monday evening.

CHARLEROI CLERKS FORM PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION

No Quorum; Council Will Meet Tonight

Only Two Members Show up on Date of the Regular Meeting.

There was no meeting of the Charleroi council last night, owing to the fact that there were not enough members present for a quorum. Piersol and Frew were the only members who appeared. An effort will be made to have a meeting tonight.

CHICKENS POISONED

Rat Poison Gets in Yard and Fowls are Sufferers—Woman is Fined.

Anna Kucera was fined $10 and costs last evening by Justice of the Peace Wilson, on a charge of poisoning five chickens belonging to Kata Parala. Both people live in the vicinity of Tenth street. The suit was brought partly through the instrumentality of Humane Agent Gelder, who now is having the stomachs of the chickens analyzed by a chemist in Pittsburgh to learn the nature of the poison used.

Mrs. Kucera in her defense said that she had used rat poison in her cellar and it had carelessly been swept out into the yard, where the chickens ate it. The affair happened on October 30. Mrs. Parala stated that she had been losing several chickens and thought that they had been poisoned on purpose.

Mr. Gelder has instituted suit against Mrs. Kucera on charges of cruelty and a hearing will be given when the results of the analysis is learned.

PROGRAM COMPLETE

FOR FIRST CONCERT

The complete program for the first annual concert to be given at the Charleroi School hall on Friday and Saturday nights, has been arranged, and folder programs are now being printed. The program consists of two parts, the first part consisting of three numbers by the orchestra, two by the Charleroi Choral society, a reading, and vocal and instrumental solos and duets. The second part, being the conclusion, is probably the best, consisting of two numbers by the orchestra, vocal solos, reading, and chorus numbers. The concluding number will be "Splinters," a grand musical "smashup."

Seats may be reserved at Piper's Pharmacy Thursday and Friday for the concert.

Judge Doty Wins.

Over in Westmoreland county, where a hot fight was waged on the judgeship, indications point to the re-election of Judge Lucian Doty, Democrat, over Chas. C. Crowell, Republican, by a majority of 1,500 or more. The rest of the Democratic county ticket is also elected.

Voted 'Em Straight.

At the election in the first precinct yesterday 146 straight Republican votes were cast out of the total of 246 polled. As there were 47 Democratic, 25 Prohibition and 6 Socialist votes polled in the precinct, but 22 Republicans cut their ticket.

Affiliated with National Organization Which Furnishes Charter.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Will Make Effort to Secure Earlier Closing Hours for Stores.

At a meeting of clerks in the Co-operative hall last night, a Charleroi branch of the Retail Clerks International Protective Association was formed, with a charter membership of 75 persons. The various officers were elected, and the constitution adopted. The Charleroi Branch will be number 507, it being affiliated with the National organization. T. H. Flinn, of Pittsburgh, an organizer of the American Federation of Labor, was present and did the organization work and there were other union labor workers here.

Officers elected were: President, B. Frank Taylor; first vice president, Miss Carrie Youngman; second vice president, Miss Kate Murphy; financial secretary, Miss Kate Mangan; recording secretary, Miss Rose Lundy; treasurer, Miss Ella Phalan; representatives to Trades Council, T. J. Shores, Miss Grace O'Donnell, Miss Victorine Hantisse, Miss Marie Veltay, Walter Jack.

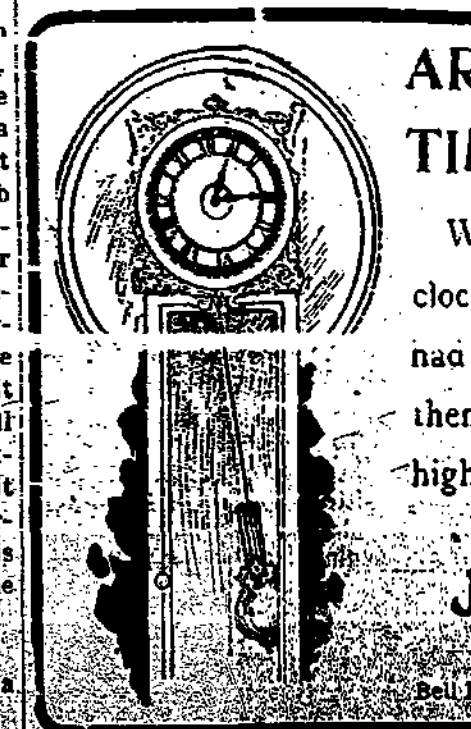

The organization will be beneficial, and the principal objects in the forming of the association was to secure earlier closing of stores, something in which the majority of merchants of Charleroi will co-operate. Another matter that will be taken up will be that of seats behind counters for lady clerks.

Arrangements were made for an open meeting to be held some time in the near future by the clerks, at which time all the citizens of Charleroi will be welcomed. The purpose of the organization will be explained and the benefits accruing from it. Meetings will be held every second and fourth Tuesday in the Merchants' Association rooms.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN EXPRESS OFFICE

Speers Business Will be Handled Through the Charleroi Agency.

An important change has been made by the Adams Express company for the Charleroi district in the placing of the Speers business in the hands of the Charleroi office. This means that all the express for Speers and Belle Vernon will be handled through the Charleroi office. W. H. Reese, the Charleroi agent will be in charge of the one office, but another driver will be put on. It is possible that a sub-office will be conducted at Speers. The change was made this week.

A Republican Year.

ing a but The triumphant election of the State take a publican ticket yesterday shows part conclusively that the principle selling protection and the action of Pennsylv to supp's representatives in both House when the of Congress are heartily endorsed by the people of this Commo wealth. While no Nation's issues were directly involved in the election of any of the candidates, their defeat would have been construed to have meant the disapproval of the National policy by the people of Pennsylvania, and would have renewed the tariff agitation which is now happily for all business interests settled for a long time to come.

Not only is the election an endorsement of the National policy, but it is also an express approval of the most excellent administration of State affairs by Governor Stuart. While a desperate attempt was made in some quarters of the State to stir up party discord, the signal failure shows that the people have nothing to repress, and that they feel the administration is in safe and good hands. There is no occasion for Republican factional discord now in Pennsylvania, with the nomination of all officials directly in the hands of the people, and all attempts to stir up trouble is doomed to meet with failure.

In By a Neck.

If E. F. Acheson voted for the candidates supported by his papers, the Observer and Reporter, and presumably he did, he can barely qualify as a Republican at the next primary election. The law provides that to be entitled to vote a party ticket at the uniform primary election, the voter must be able to qualify that he supported a majority of the candidates on the party ticket he calls for at the last general election. There were seven candidates on the ticket this fall—three State and four county. Mr. Acheson's papers urged voters to support the Democratic or Prohibition State candidates and the Republican county candidates. If he voted this way he can technically call himself a Republican by a majority of one.

While Mr. Acheson has a right to vote for whom he pleases, and to split his ticket if he sees fit, in view of his past record his conduct is extraordinary, and whatever honor, prestige or standing he may have attained he owes to the Republican party. More than that he supported the party without question through all of its worst features of bossism and corruption—including the capitol graft scandal—and bitterly arraigned those who revolted in the interests of decency and good government. Now that these elements have been eliminated and the people are once more in control, Mr. Acheson professes to be much alarmed over the party loyalty. His actions deceive no one and his efforts to wreck the Republican party in the county are doomed to ignominious failure.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

With Halloween and Election Day both over, the county will have time to collect its thoughts, and incidentally its gates.

A newspaper in a head said that a man died almost, then below added the word instantly. Sort of a queer way, though. About the only excitement Greene county gets during the year is the burg-W. and J. game.

When a fellow misses an afternoon in the office, when he should be busy, he has no business complaining because he has more work the next morning than he is able to do.

Many people have a prejudice against being on a lunacy commission. And that prejudice is considerably strengthened by the danger of the job. The other day a woman who by all rights should have been crazy, yet who was discharged from Dixmont, brought suit against the persons who said she wasn't fit to live in respectable society.

If the people who are continually complaining about the conditions would start a movement to better affairs, it would be more agreeable for all.

Ohio isn't in the same class as New York. In Ohio all their laws are written, but in New York—remember the Thaw case.

Friends of Prof. Jeffries should get behind a telephone pole, then advise him not to knock that colored man's stick off, until he gets in the ring with him.

There is something in that Prof. Carver, who wants to alter the ten commandments. It at least shows that he has read them and that is more than many people can boast of doing.

The Perfect Man.

There is a man who never drinks Nor smokes, nor chews, nor swears; Who never gambles, never flirts, And shuns all sinful snares— He's paralyzed.

There is a man who never does A thing that is not right; His wife can tell just where he is At morning, noon, and night— He's dead. —Exchange.

COUNTY PHYSICIANS

TO HOLD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Washington County Medical Society will be held in the county court house next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The report of the committee authorized to meet with the county commissioners on the matter of the society's room, of which J. F. Donohoo is chairman, report of the auditing committee, Dr. John C. Kelio of Canonsburg, chairman, and the report of the nomination committee, Dr. Charles L. Harsha, of Canonsburg, chairman, will be heard. The election of officers for the ensuing year will be a feature of the meeting and will likely draw the largest attendance for months.

The scientific program will be one of the best of the year. Dr. J. M. Timmons, of West Alexander will talk on the topic, "Diagnosis of Lesions of the Cord." Dr. C. M. Linley on "Early Diagnosis of Locomotor Ataxia," and Dr. C. L. Dodd on "Etiology and Symptomatology of Acute Poliomyelitis."

WHAT A LAWSUIT

BROUGHT ABOUT.

By M. QUAD.

(Copyright, 1909, by T. C. McClure.) Farmer Jepson, widower, lived four miles from Akron on the country road, and Jane Schofield, widow and farmer, lived three miles west of him on the Red Bridge road. They had lived thus for five years and only knew each other by name. The five years might have become twenty had not an old lop horned cow stepped in to give the parties an introduction.

The cow was owned by the widow Besides being lop horned she was bel tailed, wild eyed and had various bad habits, one of which was jumping six rail fences and wandering about at night. These promenades sometimes led her miles away and into strange pastures. The first time Farmer Jepson saw her she was in the midst of his cornfield and had cleared about half an acre of the juicy stalks. It was a good man, but he swore at her and called her names. He also tried his best to kill her on the spot. A how the corn was coming on, and after half killing her the farmer sent word that if she was not kept at home he would sue her owner for damages. "And who is Farmer Jepson that talks so big. I'd like to know!" exclaimed the widow as she got the message by a hired man. "If he thinks he's the biggest rood in the puddle he'll go right ahead and sue. Two can play at that game. I'm not allowing my five stock to bother my neighbors, but I'm not going to sit up every night in the week to see that that old cow don't get out. You go back and tell him that I'm not afraid of any ten men like him."

"Oh, she ain't, her!" exclaimed the farmer when the hired man had returned with the word. "Waal, we'll see about that. I'm no hand to complain of my neighbors, but I'm not going to have their cows in my corn and then take sass to boot. If that old critter of a cow steps hoof on my land again there'll be a lawsuit to make things rumble."

The cow didn't hurry matters any. She waited until Mr. Jepson had transplanted his cabbage plants and they had got fairly growing, and then she called one night and helped herself to 250 of them, and two days later the widow learned that suit had been commenced by Farmer Jepson to recover $250 damages.

"So he's sued me, has he?" observed the widow, as she doubled up her fists and fire came to her eyes. "Waal, well see who comes out ahead."

Plaintiff and defendant each secured a lawyer, and of course each attorney assured his client that he had the best kind of a case and was sure to win. After two or three adjournments the case came to trial, and it was in the courtroom that plaintiff and defendant first saw each other. Both were surprised, and both said something to themselves. What the farmer said was:

"Waal, by thunder! I expected to see a fat and homely old two fisted widder, and I find her a good looking little bit of a female who ought to be sitting on a husband's knee. Wish I'd seen her before I begun this suit."

"Lands o' massy, but he ain't no mean looking man!" exclaimed the widow after a look at the farmer. "Why, they said he was a big boss and bluffer and wanted to bulldoze me 'cause I'm all alone in the world. Say, now, but they are all wrong. He ain't the kind to bluff and pinch in. Wish he'd have come to see me about the old cow. If he had I'd have chained her up. Wonder how hard he'll swear agin me!"

She was soon to know. The plaintiff's lawyer in opening the case said it was an aggravated case of trespass and damage and that the sum mentioned wasn't really half what they should have sued for. Then he went on to tell of what a defiant woman the defendant was and wound up by stating his hopes that the jury would render a verdict without leaving the box. Then the plaintiff was called to the witness chair, and to the surprise of the widow and the disgust of his lawyer, he said he had forgotten the message the woman returned to him. He followed that up by declaring that his feelings had simply been shocked and that he had fully recovered from the shock in a minute and a half. As to the corn and cabbage, perhaps $10 would pay the bill.

"You jackass, but you have lost your case!" hissed his lawyer as the witness stepped down with a smile in the direction of the widow, whose lawyer was whispering to her:

"Now, you get up there and give us some hot talk and your case is won."

There was no hot talk from the widow. On the contrary, she cooed like a dove. She admitted to the ownership of the jumping, predatory cow, but was quite willing to pay reasonable damages. She didn't doubt the plaintiff's shocked feelings and was sorry for them and wished he had hit the old cow with the ax. One of the results of the suit was a verdict for 6 cents' damages, and another was that Farmer Jepson said he would call at her home for the money. He kept his word. A week later he drove up to the door and after an hour's interview was asked to call again. Three months later his disgusted lawyer was heard to exclaim:

"Prettiest case I ever had and dead sure of a verdict, and Jepson knocks it all in the head by falling in love with the defendant. Yes, they were married yesterday."

LESSONS FROM THE LATE FIGHT

Striking Comparisons Were Presented For the Young
Voters to Study and
Ponder Over

LACK OF DEMOCRATIC POLICY

No Good Reasons Advanced For
Democracy's Further Existence.
Republican Party, Built on Ever
Enduring Rocks, Openly Invites
Scrutiny and Confidence.

While the dust of the recent political contest in Pennsylvania has not entirely settled it has been demonstrated that the campaign taught a variety of useful lessons to the voters of this Commonwealth. These lessons are certain to be of immense value to the young voters who have not yet become enamored of either party beyond the stage of careless admiration.

In the very nature of things the young voter without hide-bound political affiliations must stop, look and listen after he recalls and reviews the conduct of the two great parties in the recent conflict. He must inquire seriously of himself just what the two great parties stood for in his county, his State and the Nation. His answer, which is certain to be emphatic and conclusive, will be supplied by just what he saw and heard.

The Democrats, playing hide-and-seek with the political discontents of the State, proclaimed no fixed policy or positive principle. They simply resorted to the dark-lantern methods of the pirate and quarreled with every condition as a criminal quarrels with the law. They demonstrated that they only wanted the offices for the good the offices would do them, without giving a single serious thought to the good they might accomplish for the people by controlling the offices. Victories secured under such conditions are indeed rare and even when secured are not in any way substantial. They bring no security to the party as an organization, and they give absolutely no promise of permanency. At their very best they are mere incidents and under no form of reasoning are they lasting. They possibly appeal to the people as a sensation for an hour. Then, unless they take they fade and are forgotten. Therefore, why? Why should the young voters of Pennsylvania attach themselves to the Democratic party? Who, all along the line, from Bryan to the borough constable, is able and willing to give an affirmative and at the same time a sensible answer? Why should the young man, enjoying the richest and rarest privilege given to any people—that of saying by his vote who shall govern him and administer the affairs of his county, State and Nation—follow the Democratic party, who wisp through the meshes and swamps, knowing that the guiding light, flickering in its uncertainty, is fearful of solid footing and ashamed to be caught without cover? Therefore, why?

Why should any young voter in Pennsylvania attach himself to a party which never attached itself permanently to anything higher than an office occasionally? What issue that was worth while developed from the Democratic side in the recent contest? What feature of the Democratic-Discontent campaign just ended was admirable or attractive? What reason was given in that campaign, or is likely to be given, for the existence of the Democratic party now or hereafter? Think it over, young voters! Think it over seriously! And while thinking it over, just as sincerely and seriously as is possible, recall and review the methods employed by the Republican party in the fight just ended. Study the policies and principles of the Republican party just as they were advanced and advanced during the campaign.

"I'm here, because I'm here" was the sum total of the Democratic policy, offered in the form of an excuse.

Protection, prosperity, integrity and fidelity to the best interests of all the people formed the rock upon which the Republican party stood during the contest under discussion, just as it has stood in all former contests and just as it is certain to stand in the fights of the future. Upon this policy and upon these principles, all big with interest to every loyal citizen of this State, the Republicans went direct to the people. They went even into the remote corners and told and retold their purposes and plans. They left all masquerading to be done by the Democrats and the Discontents. The Republicans appealed to the highest senses of the voters. Their campaign was managed in the open and it seems but little less than distressful that all the voters were not able to feel the effects of the magnificent campaign so skillfully managed from the headquarters of the regular Republican organization of the State, or to hear more of the policies and principles of the Republican party as preached from platforms in every county of the State.

Probably the most attractive and instructive political meeting held during the entire campaign was that held in Carnegie Hall, North Side, Pittsburgh, October 23. Such meetings are rarely held except during presidential contests. Among the speakers were United States Senators Boies Penrose and George T. Oliver, both of whom are now figures of national prominence. Both figured conspicuously in framing the new tariff legislation which has been pronounced by President Taft as the best tariff bill ever enjoyed by this Nation. Each is capable and deservedly popular. With them, at the Carnegie Hall meeting, was that brilliant young congressman, Joseph Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia. It is really too bad that the speeches of these distinguished Republicans cannot be given in full. They proclaimed the protection faith which is in them and their speeches will form a part of the political history of the future in this State.

There was one portion of Congressman Moore's tariff talk which appeals to old soldiers after the election just as earnestly as it did before the battle of the ballots. Making reference to the fact that last year Congress appropriated more than $160,000,000 for the maintenance of the old soldiers and their widows, an amount fully one-half the entire revenue derived from the tariff, and the amount paid out through the pension agency at Topeka, Kan., the largest of the 13 pension agencies, is paid to more pensioners than are found in the two agencies of Pennsylvania combined, or the two in New York State combined, or the three in the New England States combined, Mr. Moore said: "If the tariff is not a local issue in this campaign, or in any other campaign, I would like to see soldiers in the Middle West, and throughout the country as well, who require the equivalent of half of all the tariff revenues that come through the custom houses. If we eliminate the tariff from local or State campaigns and the Republican party is defeated in the stronghold of its national organization, I wonder if the property-owning business man and the home-owning citizen will not have to face the problem of direct taxation to maintain the revenues of the government? How else can the money be raised?"

Senator Penrose demonstrated his rare versatility and the wonderful expense of his familiarity with the industrial conditions of Pennsylvania, in an intensely interesting review of tariff legislation, favorable and unfavorable, and his speech throughout was one well worth a reading, after as well as before the election. At one point he said: "After a long, hard and often doubtful struggle, revised rates were secured in the Payne law under which the iron and steel industries of Pennsylvania will enjoy adequate protection and which will prevent foreign competition that would either close the mills or compel the wage earners to accept employment at the low wage scale in effect in the iron and steel industry abroad. The revision of the rates of the metal schedule will operate to the advantage of the iron and steel plants, large and small alike."

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Moldan, 2115 Second St. North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

BENTLEYVILLE TO HAVE WATER SERVICE

The hustling little village of Bentleyville of a few years ago, which has now grown to be a good sized borough with paved streets, is now arranging to have a water supply and electric lights.

A deal was put through last week for ground along North Pigeon creek by the Bentleyville Water company, which purchased the plot from H. L. Frye. It is the intention of the company at once to begin the erection of the reservoir and have the water piped to the borough. Pigeon creek will furnish an abundance of pure water.

It is understood that the same company is arranging to have an electric plant established there and soon the streets and the houses will be lighted with electricity.

Many beautiful costumes in fanciful designs will set off the shapely women in the plenitude of their charms, accordin pleated skirts and gaily colored hoisery will be much in evidence and the various dances scattered throughout the piece permit a generous exhibition of these. PRESENTIMENTS.

Incidents in Which Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before.

Coming events cast their shadows before them. The writer is led to believe this because several incidents in the lives of his parents corroborate the theory that presentiments of good and evil do come to persons unawares. I will mention two of them.

In the summer of 1871—my father late at night was returning to his farm from the little town of Malton. He had stayed unusually late. When he reached the farm all was quiet. Removing the harness from his horse, he proceeded to the cottage where he hung it in its place.

He came out and closed the door. As he did so he heard the harness fall. It was very dark. He went back into the house and found the harness still hanging in its place. The same occurrence took place again. He went back again and found it in its place.

When the third time he heard the sound of falling harness he did not go back. Several weeks later his barn burned, and it happened that the same harness was in the barn lot, a valuable set. He attempted to save it. The staircase burned behind him, and he was compelled to jump for his life from a window. His previous experience came to him vividly. He saved the harness, but at the risk of his life.

Another vivid incident I recall was my mother sitting by the fire with a sick baby. The nurse was present, too, and both were wide awake. Her father appeared to her and advised her as to the baby's treatment and other family matters. He vanished as quickly as he had come. The next day she heard of his death.—London Tit-Bits.

Messina furnished early in the nineteenth century a new word for the German language. It was from there that oranges were first shipped to Germany, and the fruit was known for a long time after its advent as "apfel aus Messina"—apple from Messina. After many years "apfel aus Messina" degenerated into "apfel Messina," and finally it became "apfelsine," the name by which oranges are still known among German speaking people.
